

Vita

Janet Y. Ferguson

Education:

- 1998 Virginia Tech, MS in Geography with an emphasis on GIS.
- 1993 Radford University, BS in geography with an emphasis on technical skills.

Areas of Interest

GIS, Remote Sensing, Recreation Ecology.

Work History

- 8/97 - present Adjunct Faculty (Instructor), Radford University, Radford, VA.
- 8/95 - 5/96 Adjunct Faculty (Instructor), Radford University, Radford, VA.
- 6/95 - 1/96 Research Assistant, Forestry Department, Virginia Polytechnic and State University.

Publications

Leung, Y. F., Jeffrey L. Marion, and Janet Y. Ferguson. 1997. Methods for Assessing and Monitoring Backcountry Trail Conditions: An Empirical Comparison. In: Harmon D. ed. Making Protection Work: Proceedings of the 9th George Wright Society Biannual Conference on Research and Resource Management in Parks and On Public Lands. March 17-21, 1997 Albuquerque NM. Hancock Michigan: The George Wright Society. Pp.406-413

Ferguson, J.Y. and Jeffrey L. Marion. 1996. Siting and Design of Recreational Hiking Trails. Paper presented at the 92nd Annual Meeting of the Association of American Geographers. April 10th to 13th Charlotte NC.

Member of a team which performed an environmental assessment of two different archaeological sites for the U.S. Forest Service in 1992 and 1994.

Edited and refined two plans for the New River Valley Planning District Commission. Plans include: The Overall Economic Development Plan and The Floyd County Comprehensive Plan, 1994.

Developed all the maps for the Bikeways Plan of the New River Valley, 1994.

Developed the Trails Map of the New River Valley of Virginia, USA 1994.