Funds for Tech athletics hit record high

Mac McEver and his fellow student aid leaders at Virginia Tech have good cause to be pleased and optimistic. McEver is executive secretary of the Virginia Tech Student Aid Foundation and has just completed his annual report to the board of directors.

"We increased our contributions by more than 15 per cent in 1973 over 1972," McEver said. "We raised more than at any time in our history. We have noted at least a 10 per cent increase each of the past 10 years."

"I think it would be safe to say that we have enough money to give all the scholarships the law allows."

McEver said the directors agreed to set a goal for 1974 to surpass the 15 per cent increase of 1973. The directors also heard a report from Frank O. Moseley, athletic director, concerning the progress of his screening committee to select a new head football coach.

"The directors were unanimous in voicing their support of the selection committee," McEver said. "They also pledged 100 per cent support to the new coach, whomever he might be."
