
SUBMITTING ARTICLES TO THE SMITHFIELD REVIEW

Do you have an article, or an idea for one, that you would like to see published in our journal?

The Smithfield Review welcomes articles on subjects pertaining to pre-1950s life, history, and culture of the peoples living west of the Blue Ridge Mountains, both in Virginia and neighboring states.

Each article should be based on the author's original research into the subject, explain why the subject is significant to the region, and contain reference notes indicating sources of the information used by the author. Your subject need not be well known to be significant. Think of our region as a patchwork quilt of many colors and differently shaped pieces, which, when combined, reveal how striking is the past of both our ancestors and our area.

If accepted for publication, your work would appear in a printed volume like this one and in our online electronic version hosted by the University Libraries at Virginia Tech, where readers and researchers from throughout the world could view and enjoy your work.

Preparing and Submitting Your Article or Sharing Ideas for One with the Editors

You may e-mail inquiries about an article idea or your article itself (as an attachment) to the co-editors at smithfieldreview@smithfieldfoundation.org.

Please prepare your article or articles in Microsoft Word using the Times New Roman font and 12-point type. The text should also be double-spaced, flush left, with 1-inch margins on all sides, and extra space should be added between paragraphs. Please place your references at the end of your article in the form of endnotes. The length should be approximately 20 to 25 pages in this format. In addition to regular articles, we publish informative shorter pieces as brief notes of just a few pages. We also invite reviews of books on topics about our region.

Upon request, we can send you a description of our editorial process, the format for graphics you may want included within your article, and an abbreviated style guide to help you with arranging endnotes and avoiding some common problems (as well as those irritating points of grammar). We look forward to hearing from you.

Co –editors Sharon B. Watkins and Clara B. Cox

The Smithfield Review

Studies in the history of the region west of the Blue Ridge
Volume 21, 2017

A Note from the Editors.....	v
A Tribute to Hugh Campbell Charles L. Taylor	vii
New Maritime Records of James Patton Ryan S. Mays	1
Alexander Black and His World, 1857–1935: Part I: 1857–1877 Sharon B. Watkins	19
True Friends of the Confederacy John R. Hildebrand	39
“The Nigh and Best Way”: The Early Development of Roads in Montgomery County Jim Page and Sherry Joines Wyatt	65
Catawba Sanatorium: Its Founding and Early History Grace Hemmingson	81
Brief Note: Possible Scottish Baptism Records of James Patton’s Children Ryan S. Mays	107
Index to Volume 21 Sharon B. Watkins and Clara B. Cox	110

Published by the Smithfield-Preston Foundation
in cooperation with Virginia Tech Libraries and the Department of History
Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, Virginia

This publication has been made possible through the generous contributions of

National Bank
Blacksburg, Virginia

Published in cooperation with Virginia Tech Libraries and with the Department of History
Virginia Tech
through funding from the
Frank L. Curtis Fund

Would you like to see your article published in
The Smithfield Review?
Directions for submissions appear on the back cover.